Part I: Meet the Relatives

A Lens of Understanding on why they act the way they do

1. Family Fables by the Doctors Rick 3

Eight short stories in which you meet the Eight by Fate hard-to-deal-with relatives.

The General: The Family Trip . . . The Judge: The Real Story of Jack, the Giant, and the Bean Stalk . . . The Pleaser: Leave It to Pleasers . . . The VIP: Bonaparte Family Reunion . . . The Meddler: Interference from Olympus . . . The Martyr: The Night Before Christmas . . . The Rebel: The Pirate Convention . . .
The Mystery: The Mystery of the Missing Man . . . The Five Choices

2. The Lens of Understanding: The Normal Zone 17

We focus our magnifying glass on understanding the ways you and your family members make sense out of what it means to “behave” and how that affects your dealings with relatives.

What Determines Focus and Engagement? . . . Be Responsible . . .
Be Appropriate . . . Be Considerate . . . Be Significant . . . It’s a Question of Balance . . . As Intent Changes, So Does Behavior

3. The Either/Or Zone: Greatness or Danger 27

The Either/Or Zone is a gray area where unfulfilled intentions require you to choose between fulfillment in the Dimension of Greatness or a relentless cycle of reaction in the Danger Zone.

Thwarted and Projected Intentions . . . The General . . . The Judge . . .
The Pleaser . . . The VIP . . . The Meddler . . . The Mystery . . . The Martyr . . .
The Rebel

Part II: Family Camp

A learning environment for essential skills

- 4. Getting to Common Ground 41
We emphasize what you already know about successful communication, bring it into your awareness, and show you how to use it with difficult family members.
 Blending, the First Basic Skill . . . Redirecting, the Second Basic Skill
- 5. Listen with Intention 46
Hearing is one thing, understanding another. Here is a listening strategy to keep you interested in what you hear, along with eight ways to get to the deeper meaning of generalizations.
 The Listening Process . . . The Perils of Generalization . . . Hidden Meanings Behind Generalizations . . . You Can Do It
- 6. Get to the Heart of the Matter 56
When you identify the hidden elements of a communication, you gain valuable influence over the direction and quality of the relationship.
 Find the Good . . . Reinforce Wanted Behaviors . . . Deal with Criticism
- 7. Reach a Deeper Understanding 62
Here are two communication elements to help you avoid getting into problems with relatives, and get out of problems with relatives once it's too late to avoid them.
 Doing Unto Others: Behavioral Definitions . . . Clarifying Behavioral Definitions . . . Come Together with Clarity: Criteria
- 8. Telling Your Truth 66
Here's an important truth: Whenever a person tells the truth, it is his or her own version of it. Own your truth and set yourself and others free with two principles and a plan.
 Know the Value of Your Truth . . . Know What You'll Say Before You Say It
- 9. The Art of the Apology 77
An apology begins and ends in forgiveness, and creates the space for the present to be the endearing gift of a new beginning.
 The Nature of Forgiveness . . . The Power of Forgiveness . . . Give Peace a Chance

10. Changing Your Reactions 84

Your reactions to relatives are a group of powerful associations that give you the leverage to change your world!

Eight Strategies: Create Neutral Turf . . . Create a New Dynamic . . . Find a New Environment . . . Gain a New Perspective . . . Reverse the Roles . . . Find the Right Time . . . Change Your Mode of Communication . . .
Change from the Inside Out

Part III: Family Gatherings, Get-Togethers, Show-Ups, and Showdowns at the Not-OK Corral

11. Know Your Magic Numbers 101

These numbers can mean the difference between having a good time that strengthens your family relationships and having an awful time that damages relationships to the detriment of family.

Geography . . . Frequency . . . Time . . . Magic Number Worksheet

12. Do an Obligation Evaluation 106

To help you go from “have to” to “don’t have to” to “don’t want to” or “really want to!” we offer you this pre-obligation checklist. While you don’t have to use it, you may want to give it a try.

Pre-Obligation Checklist

13. Know Your Support Strategies 109

There are three stages to family events: before, during, and after. Giving and getting meaningful support can be an important aspect of each of them.

The Before Stage . . . The During Stage . . . The After Stage

14. Rules of Non-Engagement 119

If you decide to go to an event and you choose not to suffer, then you can go with a different attitude, or go with a different attitude and behavior. To avail yourself of one or both of these two choices, we offer you the following four rules.

Decide in Advance . . . Plan for Sore Subjects . . . Keep Your Perspective . . .
Use Reminders
